

Cowell's (E. B.) translation of the Vi- kramorvaṣi.	Lassen's Sanskrit Anthology (with glos- sary).	Stenzler's edition of the Raghu-vaṇṣa. — Yājñavalkya.
— edition of Elphinstone's History of India.	Liddell's and Scott's Greek-English Lexicon.	Tāranātha Tarkavācaspati's Dhātu- rūpādarśa.
Curtius' (Georg) Grundzüge der Griechischen Etymologie.	Ludvig's Infinitiv im Veda.	Thompson's (J. C.) Bhagavad-gītā (with translation).
Farrar's (F. W.) Families of Speech.	Molesworth's (James T.) Murathee Dictionary.	Thornton's Gazetteer.
Foucaux's (Ph. Ed.) Episodes of the Mahā-bhārata.	Moor's Hindū Pantheon.	Troyer's Rāja-taranginī.
Goldstücker's (Theodor) Sanskrit- English Dictionary (parts I-VI).	Müller's (Max) Ancient Sanskrit Litera- ture.	Vigfusson's (G.) Cleasby's Icelandic Dictionary.
Griffith's (Ralph T. H.) Specimens of Old Indian Poetry.	— Chips from a German Workshop.	Weber's (Albrecht) Vājasaneyi-saṃ- hitā.
Hall's (Fitz-Edward) edition of the Sūrya-siddhānta.	— Hymns to the Maruts.	— Śatapatha-Brāhmaṇa.
— Contribution towards an Index to the Bibliography of the Indian Philosophical Systems.	— Lectures on the Science of Language.	— Kātyāyana-śrauta-sūtra.
— translation of Nīlakaṇṭha's Rational Refutation of the Hindū Philoso- phical Systems.	— R̥g-veda-saṃhitā.	— Indische Studien.
— Sāṅkhya-pravācāna-bhāṣya.	— R̥g-veda-prātiśākhya.	— Indische Streifen.
— edition of Wilson's Vishṇu-Purāṇa.	— Sanskrit Grammar.	Westergaard's Radices Linguae San- scritæ.
Haughton's (Graves C.) Bengālī Dic- tionary.	Muir's (John) Original Sanskrit Texts (five volumes).	Whitney's (W. D.) Atharva-veda-prā- tiśākhya.
Haug's (Martin) Aitareya-Brāhmaṇa (with translation.)	Prinsep's (James) Indian Antiquities (edited with notes and addenda by Edward Thomas).	— (and Roth's) Atharva-veda-saṃhitā.
Hilpert's (J. D.) German Dictionary.	Rādhākānta - deva's Śabda - kalpa- druma.	— Language and the Study of Language (twelve lectures).
Johnson's (Francis) Hitopadeśa (first and second editions, with transla- tion and vocabulary).	Rājendralāla-Mitra's notices of Sanskrit MSS.	Wilson's (H. H.) Glossary of Indian Terms.
— Selections from the Mahā-bhārata (with vocabulary).	Regnier's Étude sur l'idiome des Vēdas.	— Sanskrit-English Dictionary.
— Megha-dūta (1st and 2nd editions, with vocabulary).	— R̥gveda-prātiśākhya.	— Sanskrit Grammar.
Jones' (Sir William) translation of Manu.	Rieu's (and Böhtlingk's) Hemaçandra.	— Sāṅkhya-kārikā.
Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society.	Röer's (E.) Upanishads (with transla- tions).	— Theatre of the Hindūs.
	— (and Montriou's) Hindū Law.	— translation of the R̥g-veda (vols. I-IV).
	Roth's (and Böhtlingk's) Sanskrit-Wör- terbuch).	— translation of the Vishṇu-Purāṇa.
	Roth's Nirukta.	Yates' (W.) octavo edition of Wilson's Sanskrit Dictionary with addenda (partly edited by J. Wenger).
	— (and Whitney's) Atharva-veda- saṃhitā.	Zeitschrift der Deutschen morgenländ- ischen Gesellschaft.
	Schlegel's (A. G.) Rāmāyaṇa.
	Scott's and Liddell's Greek-English Lexicon.

SECTION 6.

Aids and Encouragements received.

My first acknowledgments are due to the Delegates of the Clarendon Press, without whose kind patronage this work could never have been published. It does not become me to commend the efforts these gentlemen are making for the furtherance of education, except so far as to say that they fitly represent the mind and wishes of the University of Oxford. Nor does the Clarendon Press itself need any monument of my rearing. Let those who desire proofs of its efficiency look around and note the series of valuable educational books constantly issuing from its founts, models of clear and accurate typography, in almost every department of science.

Perhaps, however, I may be permitted to mention specially the name of one who has recently left us, but who was a member of the Press-Delegacy when the publication of this